

Contents

SWANSEA: EXAMINATION BLUES

JOSEPH DIETZGEN
Adam Buick

FREEDOM OF SPEECH AND ACADEMIC FREEDOM
Roy Edgley

ANTI-MORALISM
Pete Binns

NOTES:

David Lamb: Reductionism
Trevor Pateman: Re-reading Hare

DISCUSSION:

Edmund Burke: Wittgenstein's Conservatism
Ian Craib: Rancière and Althusser
D.A. Wilson: Socialist Humanism

LETTERS

REVIEWS:

Sean Sayers: Philosophy in China
Russell Keat: Habermas
Christopher Norris: Russian Semiology
Teifion Davies: Radical Psychology
Trevor Pateman: Writings of Passage
Liz Peretz: What School is for
Jean McCrindle: Women's History

NEWS

Chile, Yugoslavia, Counter-course

LETTER TO READERS

This issue was edited by Jonathan Rée (co-ordinator)
Alison Assiter, Chris Arthur, Ted Benton,
Mike Dawney, Michael Erben, Denis Gleeson, John
Mephram, Sean Sayers, Tony Skillen, Kate Soper,
Janet Vaux. Peter Binns.
Production and paste up: Alison Assiter,
Mike Dawney, Jonathan Rée, Janet Vaux
Typed by Jo Foster and Barbara Coysh
Design by Andrew Fall
Publicity by Richard Norman, Sean Sayers
Distribution by Michael Erben, John Krige, John
Mephram, Kate Soper
Finances overseen by John Krige

Local Sellers

BATH - B.G. Reeves
School of Humanities & Social Studies,
The University
BELFAST - Bob Eccleshall
Dept. of Political Science, Queens University
BRIGHTON - Alison Assiter
Arts Bldg, University of Sussex
BRISTOL - Keith Graham
Dept. of Philosophy, The University
CAMBRIDGE - J. Ahier
Homerton College of Education
CANTERBURY - Richard Norman
Darwin College, University of Kent
CARDIFF - K.A. Markham
APPS, U.W. Inst. of Science & Technology
- B. Wilkins
Dept. of Philosophy, University College
COLCHESTER - Ted Benton
Dept. of Sociology, University of Essex
CORK - John Daly
Students Union, University College
COVENTRY - Pete Binns
School of Philosophy, University of Warwick
EDINBURGH - S.R.C. Shop David Hume Tower
GLASGOW - D. Ruben
Logic Dept., The University
KEELE - Dennis Gleeson
Dept. of Education, The University
LAMPETER - H.M. Jones
Philosophy Dept. St David's College
LANCASTER - Howard Feather
Cartmel College, The University
LEEDS - Hugo Meynell
Dept. of Philosophy, The University
LEICESTER - N. Pittard
Mary Gee Houses, The University.
LONDON - Michael Erben, Dept. of Sociology,
Garnett College
- Mike Dawney, Middlesex Poly at Hornsey
- Claud Pehrson; " at Enfield
- Jonathon Rée " at Hendon
- Alison Assiter, North London Poly at
Prince of Wales Road
NORWICH - Nick Everitt
School of Social Studies, University of East
Anglia
OXFORD - Paul O'Flinn
Dept. of Literature & Art, Oxford Poly
- George Wootton, Wadham College
SOUTHAMPTON - D. Lamb
17 Southdene Road, Chandlers Form
SWANSEA - D. Sheriff
Philosophy Dept., The University

The Radical Philosophy Group

The Radical Philosophy Group grew out of the convergence of two currents which had been largely formed by the student movement of the 1960s - on the one hand, discontent, especially among students, with the sterile and complacent philosophy taught in British universities and colleges; on the other hand, a revival of interest in theoretical work on the left and a recognition of the need to confront the ideology enshrined in orthodox academic disciplines. The Radical Philosophy Group has always contended that these two problems can be tackled together - that philosophical inquiry into fundamental issues must lead to the exposure of conservatism masquerading as formal reason.

Academic philosophy in this country has generally accepted and defended the frame of reference of the dominant bourgeois culture. This culture is supported and mirrored by the elitist isolation, the internal hierarchies and demarcations, of academic institutions. The Radical Philosophy Group therefore works for reforms in courses and assessments, for the enlargement of students' control over their education, for the breaking down of barriers between philosophy and other disciplines and between academic institutions and the outside world.

The Group has held several conferences, and local groups have been formed which have organised meetings and agitated on local issues. Radical Philosophy is the magazine of the Radical Philosophy Group, and has come out three times a year since January 1972. It aims to criticise the current state of philosophy in the English-speaking world and to encourage philosophical discussion on the left, and welcomes any contributions which will serve these aims.