CONTENTS

NOVEMBER/DECEMBER 2001

COMMENTARY

No to Kyoto
Chris Wilbert ................................................................. 2
One More Symptom: The Foot and Mouth Crisis in Britain
Ted Benton ................................................................. 7

ARTICLES

In Search of Community: Mouffe, Wittgenstein and Cavell
Alessandra Tanesini ....................................................... 12
Micropolitics: Leo Bersani and Conflicts in Contemporary Feminism
Rafeeq Hasan ............................................................. 20
No Man’s Land: Reading Kant Historically
Howard Caygill ......................................................... 31

REVIEWS

Georg Lukács, A Defence of History and Class Consciousness:
Tailism and the Dialectic
Fredric Jameson .......................................................... 36
Julia Kristeva, The Sense and Non-sense of Revolt: The Powers and Limits of Psychoanalysis
Dominique Lecourt, The Mediocracy: French Philosophy since the Mid-1970s
David Macey .............................................................. 40
Christopher Norris, Minding the Gap: Epistemology and Philosophy of Science in the Two Traditions
Roger Harris ............................................................... 42
Jonathan Michael Kaplan, The Limits and Lies of Human Genetic Research: Dangers for Social Policy
Terence Sullivan .......................................................... 45
John Rawls, Lectures on the History of Moral Philosophy
Sean Sayers ............................................................... 48
Jacques Godbout, The World of the Gift
Andrew McGettigan ..................................................... 49
Peter Osborne, ed., From an Aesthetic Point of View: Philosophy, Art and the Senses
Dominic Willsdon .......................................................... 52
Brian Barry, Culture and Equality: An Egalitarian Critique of Multiculturalism
Jocelyn Maclure ........................................................... 53

NEWS

Whose war?
Peter Hallward ............................................................ 55