

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION -----	1
ARTICLES
Masters, Slaves and Others ----- Genevieve Lloyd	2
Women and the High Priests of Reason ----- Janna Thompson	10
Masculinity in Philosophy ----- Russell Keat	15
Greenham Common: an Exchange ----- Kate Soper and Alison Assiter	21
Did Man Make Language? ----- Alison Assiter	25
Sexist Language: Fatherfuck or Genderspeak? ----- Mike Shortland & John Fauvel	29
REVIEWS
Carol McMillan: Women, Reason & Nature ----- Jean Grimshaw	33
Carol McMillan: Women, Reason & Nature ----- Amy Hardie	36
S. Heath: The Sexual Fix ----- Martin Barker	36
A. Whitmarsh: Simone de Beauvoir and the Limits of Commitment ----- Jonathan Rée	37
Past Masters Series ----- Mike Shortland & T.J. Wassall	38
W. Bienkowski: Theory and Reality ----- Roy Edgley	41
A. Heller: A Theory of History ----- Gregor McLennan	43
K. Marx and F. Engels: Collected Works , Vol.38 ----- Chris Arthur	44
List of books and articles on feminism and philosophy -----	9
LETTERS	45
NEWS	47

INDEX OF OUR FIRST TEN YEARS

In RP31 there appeared a cumulative index of articles, reviews and other pieces published in Radical Philosophy from issue No.1 to issue No.30. Further copies are available, free of charge, for those considering purchasing back numbers. Please write to: Mike Shortland, Department of History and Philosophy of Science, University of Leeds, LS6 9JT

RADICAL PHILOSOPHY GROUP

The Radical Philosophy Group grew out of a convergence of two currents which had been largely formed by the student movement of the 1960s - on the one hand, discontent, especially among students, with the sterile and compacent philosophy taught in British universities and colleges; on the other hand, a revival of interest in the theoretical work of the left and a recognition of the need to confront the ideology enshrined in orthodox academic disciplines. The Radical Philosophy Group has always contended that these two problems can be tackled together - that philosophical inquiry into fundamental issues must lead to the exposure of conservatism masquerading as formal reason.

Academic philosophy in this country has generally accepted and defended the frame of reference of the dominant bourgeois culture. This culture is supported and mirrored by the elitist isolation, the internal hierarchies and demarcations, of academic institutions. The Radical Philosophy Group therefore works for reforms in courses and assessments for the enlargement of students' control over their education, for the breaking down of barriers between philosophy and other disciplines and between academic institutions and the outside world.

The Group has held numerous conferences, and local groups have been formed which have organised meetings and agitated on local issues. Radical Philosophy is the magazine of the Radical Philosophy Group, and has come out three times a year since January 1972. It aims to criticise the current state of philosophy in the English-speaking world and to encourage philosophical discussion on the left. It welcomes any contributions which will serve these aims.