

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL	1
ARTICLES
Scientific and Social Problems and Perspectives of Alternative Medicine: analysis of a Dutch Controversy	J. Keuletz, C.Kwa, H. Radder 2
A critique of Deep Ecology	R. Sylvan 10
Politics re-entered: The state in its place	T. Skillen 23
REVIEWS
Young Hegels	Jonathan Ree 28
Radicalism and reaction in the work of Max Weber	Steve Crooks 31
Dangers of Deterrence	John Mephram 33
Tallyman	David Archard 34
Shorter Reviews	35
NEWS	43
COMMENT	Boris Frankel 47
LETTERS	51

INDEX OF OUR FIRST TEN YEARS

In RP31 there appeared a cumulative index of articles, reviews and other pieces published in Radical Philosophy from issue No.1 to issue No.30. Further copies are available, free of charge, for those considering purchasing back numbers.

Please write to: Mike Shortland, Manor Close, Main Street, Burton-in-Kendall, Lancaster LA6 1LH

RADICAL PHILOSOPHY GROUP

The Radical Philosophy Group grew out of a convergence of two currents which had been largely formed by the student movement of the 1960s - on the one hand, discontent, especially among students, with the sterile and complacent philosophy taught in British universities and colleges; on the other hand, a revival of interest in the theoretical work of the left and a recognition of the need to confront the ideology enshrined in orthodox academic disciplines. The Radical Philosophy Group has always contended that these two problems can be tackled together - that philosophical inquiry into fundamental issues must lead to the exposure of conservatism masquerading as formal reason.

Academic philosophy in this country has generally accepted and defended the frame of reference of the dominant bourgeois culture. This culture is supported and mirrored by the élitist isolation, the internal hierarchies and demarcations, of academic institutions. The Radical Philosophy Group therefore works for reforms in courses and assessments for the enlargement of students' control over their education, for the breaking down of barriers between philosophy and other disciplines and between academic institutions and the outside world.

The Group has held numerous conferences, and local groups have been formed which have organised meetings and agitated on local issues. Radical Philosophy is the magazine of the Radical Philosophy Group, and has come out three times a year since January 1972. It aims to criticise the current state of philosophy in the English-speaking world and to encourage philosophical discussion on the left. It welcomes any contributions which will serve these aims.